- 2015 THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY BLOOMBERG SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH
Doctor of Public Health (DrPH), Department of International Health
May 2015, GPA: 4.0 (4.0 Scale)
Certificates: Certificate in Maternal and Child Health, Certificate in Humanitarian Assistance
Dissertation Topic: A Balanced Scorecard to Measure the Provision and Quality of Health Services in The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) Refugee Camps; Work involved developing and testing a Balanced Scorecard (BSC) evaluation methodology in conjunction with UNHCR for assessing provision and quality of facility-based services in refugee camp settings. The evaluation methodology has both quantitative and qualitative components, is feasible for implementation in post-emergency contexts in a short time period of one to two days, and is adaptable to varying global settings. Data collection was done through provider surveys, facility observation, record review, clinical observation, and a patient exit interviews. Testing of the tool occurred in two Somali camps in Ethiopia, three refugee camps in Ghana, and three refugee camps in Uganda. Work funded by the UNHCR and the Johns Hopkins Center for Refugee and Disaster Response and was the first ever BCS tailored rapid public health assessment tool for UNHCR and their refugee camps around the world.
